Phrasal verbs

11 Separable or inseparable?

A dictionary shows you whether a phrasal verb can be separated by an object.

turn sth on to move the switch, etc. on a piece of machinery, etc. to start it working:
Turn the lights on!

The preposition on comes after sth. This means the verb and the preposition can be separated.

Turn the light on. Turn on the light.

If the object is a pronoun (it, him, her, me, them, us, you), it must come before the preposition.

Turn it on.

NOT Turn on it.

look for sb/sth to try to find sb/sth: We looked for you everywhere. Where were you?

The preposition for comes before sb/sth. This means that the verb and the preposition cannot be separated.

I'll look for John later. I'll look for him.
NOT I'll look him for.

→ Look at likes and dislikes. 2 to want: Do what you like. I don't care.
► Would like is a more polite way to say 'want': Would you like to come to lunch on Sunday? • I would like some more cake, please. • I'd like to speak to the manager. Would like is always followed by the infinitive, never by the -ing form.

6 A poem

1 T 9.2 Read the poem.

The house is not the same since you left

THE HOUSE IS NOT THE SAME since you left
the cooker is angry – it blames me
The TV tries desperately to stay busy but occasionally I catch it staring out of the window
The washing-up's feeling sorry for itself again
it just sits there saying
'What's the point, what's the point?'
The curtains count the days
Nothing in the house will talk to me
I think your armchair's dead
The kettle tried to comfort me at first but you know what its attention span is like I've not told the plants yet they think you're still on holiday
The bathroom misses you
I hardly see it these days
It still can't believe you didn't take it with you
The bedroom won't even look at me since you left it keeps its eyes closed all it wants to do is sleep, remembering better times trying to lose itself in dreams
it seems like it's taken the easy way out but at night I hear the pillows weeping into the sheets.

5 Visiting a city

- 1 Read about Montreal. Then complete the questions below.

MONTRÉAL

Montreal in Canada is the largest French-speaking city in the world next to Paris. It has a population of 2.8 million of which two thirds have French ancestry. French is the official language, but English is almost as common. There are language laws that require French writing in public places to be twice as large as English.

Montreal is situated on the Saint Lawrence Seaway and is a vital port for ships travelling to the Great Lakes and the Atlantic. It lies below Mount Royal, the ancient volcano after which the city is named. It was "discovered" in 1535 by the French explorer Jacques Cartier and is a wonderful mix of old and new – ancient stone buildings alongside modern, glass and steel.

The climate is one of extremes: summers are hot, 27°C, but winter temperatures average only -10°C and winter lasts four to five months. However, in order that you don't have to suffer such cold, they have built an underground city called 'La Ville Souterraine'. This is one of Montreal's most amazing sights with nearly 20 miles of walkways below street level. You can shop, have lunch, watch a movie, and enter a hotel without ever going outside!

The city celebrates the arts in a big way. Visitors from all over the world travel to Montreal for its many film and jazz festivals. It's also the gourmet capital of North America. Not only can you find some of the world's finest restaurants (over 5,000), but on nearly every street corner you can buy 'poutine', a delicious dish of French fries served with hot cheese and brown gravy.

All in all Montreal has much to offer. It is one of the most interesting cities in North America.

September

24 Sunday

Tom and I had our first big row last night – all about our honeymoon, of course. It was horrible! We shouted at each other!

He told me that it was my fault that we'd gone to Mexico and that the holiday had cost a fortune and had been the worst holiday he had ever had.

I said that there was nothing wrong with Mexico, it was very beautiful, but the travel agency were to blame. Their brochure had promised all kinds of things about the hotel and it had all been lies. I told him that he had no right to blame me and I started crying.

Tom said he was sorry and that he knew that it wasn't my fault really. He said that he would go to the travel agent first thing in the morning and that he would tell them about everything that had gone wrong. I said that I would go, too, because I was going to ask for our money back or another holiday.

Let's see what happens tomorrow!!
